LA BELLE SYLPHIDE.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY ETTIE ROGERS.

The curtain rolled up on a dreamy scene-A gleam of sea, a castle far and still, And armored horsemen in a valley green; Nearer, a silent glade, a wooded hill.

And there, within the dreamy, dusky glade, Between the fallen sun and flushed moonrise Between the shadowed light and lighted shade, A dazzling vision flashed before my eyes.

An azure butterfly with silver wings ?-Perchance belated on her honeyed way Through woodland bloom, where still the wood Its failing vespers to the failing day? [bird sings

Or humming bird, plumaged in argent blue ?-Poised half for rest and half for twinkling flight Pausing to sip the tempting nectar dew Upheld in jeweled flower-cups to her sight?

And then I looked and looked again and smiled It was nor butterfly nor humming bird My dazzied eyes the moment had beguiled. Whose music murmurous the air had stirred.

It was La Belle Sylphide—the fairy queen Of dance and song!—the new divinity The fleeting glamour of the dreamy scene Dissolved! Ah, me! ah, me!

Ah me !- that she had been a butterfly Indeed !- to charm me for a little space, Flit on her honeyed way, and pass me by With never glimpses of a siren face.

Had she been but an airy humming bird, Pausing to drain a nectared blossom-cup, No La Belle Sylphide had my fancies stirred And left for me a wormwood draught to sup

That night the curtain rolled up on the play, Revealed to me the queen of song and dance; And she, the siren, stole my heart away With one enchanting, illusory glance

I loved La Sylphide; and, as lovers will, My love I offered, all I could bestow; I dined and wined her, heedless of the bill, And gave her diamonds for her brow of snow

She took my flatteries, my love, my dimes !-That my divinity may be content, I offer now the tribute of my rhymes;

My purse is empty, and my hopes are dead; My costly goddess is no more for me; efore we met, La Belle Sylphide was wed— Was wed!—Ah me!—ah me!

I have no more-all else, alas, is spent

BLOOD ON THE FACE OF THE MOON!

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY CHARLES H. DAY.

When the two great rival circus managers, Pete E. Houseum and Bless Hindleg, clashed on the same route there was indeed "blood on the face of the moon," a shedding of ink and a bandying of epi thets that was truly appalling.

The articles that the rival press agents wrote for the newspapers by the yard, and paid for by the column, were hot enough to melt the glue rolls on the printing machines.

The publishers were glad, the show proprietors were mad and the rival agents jolly.

Pete E. Houseum telegraphed to his literary 'Spare no expense; bust old Hindleg if you can snatch him bald headed.'

Bless Hindleg wired his literary scribe:
"Rip old Houseum up the ulster, without regard

Compliments were exchanged as rapidly and as savagely as blows in a dead in earnest first class

Houseum frothed at the mouth, and Hindleg-he just swore until everything was sulphurous blue. Blister, who was writing up Hindleg and writing down Houseum, twitted the latter of being a d pointed politician and a temperance advocate that "smiled behind the door."

Houseum's ink-slinger retorted that old Hindleg never earned an honest dollar in all his life, and

Then Hindleg's "Man Friday" put in his say 'That scalawag of a Houseum does know the difference between a church and a hen roost, but it is very unsafe for the poultry."

Houseum's representative came to time with:
"Take in your washing! Hindleg is coming. He never spares a line.'

'The fellow that writes that libellous stuff ought to be put in jail, and if I have any say in the matter." Hindleg threatened with a pyrotechnic display of

"If that scoundrel ever shows up on my lot I'll bury him alive in the ring bank."

Houseum's agent wrote up a long article about the camels of Hindleg's show having the itch, and scattering it through the land. Hindleg's representative came up smiling. He wrote and published: "One of our camels did have the itch, having caught it from Houseum's agent. It killed the animal, as might have been expected.

circus audience in August with no ice in town, he wired promptly:

"Consult a lawyer at once. I have stood this sort of thing long enough. I'll break Hindleg and send him to State's prison if it costs every dollar I am worth in the world."

The writer did not consult an attorney. He simply charged up a retaining fee of twenty-five dollars on his expense account, and put the money in his own pocket.

Houseum's "right hand man" got back thusly: "Hindleg's show got off the track last week. It ran over the old man's breath; result, the railroad track and ties rotted for half a mile."

"I shall hold you responsible in heavy damages for reporting that my show is going up. If you are short I will lend you money. I have got plenty and

Of course a retort in kind followed: "Houseum, that galvanized old mummy, hasn't drawn a natural breath for years; all the wind omes from his agents. He is seen alive only once in a year in New York, when his show starts the balance of the year he is hanging on a hook in uncertain that it will reach this town. Its doom is sealed. His animals have the mange, and so has the manager, who is as full of fleas as the trick dog that surpasses him in intelligence. What with glandered horses and a depleted treasury, it is a wonder if he gets here at all. It is rumored that the musicians quit because they did not care to take notes for notes; they preferred cash. And so raged the battle. The editors' wives put bonnets, and their husbands began to talk about investing in a local land boom. They found lots in the show-fight, and were willing to inves in lots, corner ones prefered.

In the midst of all the fury Hindleg's agent received a telegram

'Don't do anything for next season until I see if we can deal. I will give you as much as anyone Wire your terms. (Signed) PETE E. HOUSEUM." Houseum's agent also received a communication by wire

(Signed) BLESS HINDLEG. After that the rival ink slingers, each keeping his wn counsel, opened his choicest vial of wrath and bottle of ink and went at the opposition show ham

They ran through the full list of infectious diseases, and Hindleg's scribe even accused the very religious Houseum of being an inddel. If the readers of the papers had not been rather amused with the latherings that appeared in print they might have kicked, but they all seemed to agree that it was:

Better than a circus."

Money was no object. You may know that, when it was a proven fact that one editor was seen in a ewelry store pricing a diamond pin, and it was no slouch of a pin either. It would have answered all the purposes of a lantern on a dark night.

Both spoke a piece on the folly of newspaper agents involving their principals in such causeless nd unnecessary expenditure.

Hindleg deplored: "I never did approve of it, and you know it."

Houseum said to his retained villifler: "Your indiscreet and unauthorized extravagance has cost me a round figure and should be a lesso to you to henceforth devote your talents and energies to advertising your own show and not venting our personal spleen at my expense.

CHARLES ANDRESS.

The subject of our portrait this week was born in Brockville, Can., in 1853, his parents moving to Michigan shortly after his birth. When Charles was three years old his father was killed, leaving a widow and five children, all boys-Edwin, Albert, James, Charles and Wilson. While very young Mr. Andress made his appearance as a child ventrilo-quist and necromancer, and at the age of seven was traveling with Capt. Thomas, a noted magician. At the age of thirteen he was running his own show. He always had a great liking for trained animals, and naturally drifted into that branch of the profession. He has been successful in training birds, dogs and goats. This is the Professor's third season, and he promises soon to crowd some of the older ones in this branch of the business. Professor is a temperate man, but not so much so as some people might suppose. He is an ardent admirer of all kinds of legitimate sport, and very often can be found playing billiards near his home Outside of his quite extensive show business he is the possessor of a fine farm of eight hundred and eighty acres near Great Bend, Kas., called Andressville. It is well stocked, and has a number of sub-stantial buildings and out houses. James T. Andress, an elder brother, superintends it. Wilson, a younger brother, is the manager of Andress' Car-nival of Novelties and Trained Animal Show, of which Charles is the proprietor. Mr. Andress' trade mark is "D. O. D. S.," of which he is very proud, and quite justly, too.

A RIDE FOR LIFE.

"Some twenty-four years ago," said an old pioneer, "I was in the employ of an overland stage company. Reports came in that the Sioux were on the warpath, and had been seen in large numbers near the Santa Fe trail, the route pursued by our stages. I was stationed at the time at Fort Dodge, and had a general supervision of the stages and live stock. Feeling somewhat uneasy, as several coaches loaded with passengers and treasures were on the road, I selected one of the best horses in the stable, and started west on the trail. The afternoon of the third day, upon the top of a low sand-dune, I saw at a distance of perhaps three miles at least a score of redskins filing over a rocky bluff.
"Putting spurs to my animal, I started on the dead run, not having much fear but that I could escape. I had not proceeded many miles before a bullet whistied past my ear. This was followed by a perfect volley. At the same moment some cotton ods several hundred yards to the right seemed suddenly to become alive with Sioux. Dashing forth with a wild whoop, and mounted on fresh horses, while mine was considerably jaded, the distance soon lessened nearly one-half. Spurring my horse to almost inconceivable efforts, I had soon distanced all but three of the murderous gang, who were slowly gaining on me, keeping up an almost constant fire meanwhile. Turning in my saddle, I fired at the nearest foe, who rolled from his saddle, and his body was hidden in the tail grass which here grew in wild prairie abundance. This caused here grew in wild prairie abundance. a momentary pause on the part of the other two, but instantly, however, they were in full cry.

"At this moment I, for the first time, became aware of a new danger. I had for some time detected the odor of smoke, and, looking up, saw the lurid glare of a prairie fire reflected on the sky. The sun had gone down, and the shadows were fast lengthening on the plain. Almost maddened with the terrors of my position, I urged my exhausted animal to the utmost possible speed. Soon the hot flames seemed to lick my very eyebalis with their fervid tongues. In thinking of the new horror I had almost forgotten the scarcely less terrible Sloux. Glancing hastily over my shoulder I saw that the two Indians were close behind me, evidently thinking the fear of the flames would make me an easy prey. "I was at this time on the very edge of the ocean of fire, which was hissing and crackling around me with a continuous seething roar. At this moment, raised to cleave my skull. As quick as thought I raised my rife partially and put a bullet through his brain. We were then just within the edge of the flame, and as he fell beadlong I could imagine the odor of burning flesh sizzling in the flerce blaze. Wrapped in a perfect sheet of flame, my maddened animal made a desperate leap, and we both fell.

"How long I lay there I know not. The sun was high in the heavens when I regained conscious ness, and opening my turning eyes I saw a group standing around me. One glance and I saw tha they were friends.

"It was months before I entirely recovered from my terrible burns and the terrible shock my system had sustained from the continued horrors through which I had gone.'

THE NEW YORK STAGE.

Thomas Hamblin had struggled alone and in-curred many debts until the Summer of 1835, when the engagement of Forrest and Celeste, and the production of several spectacles, among which were "The Earthquake" (which yielded $8,000 the first week), "The Last Days of Pompeii" (by which was cleared $10,000) and "Norman Les-lie," which also added $6,000 to the treasury, enabled Hamblin to rid himself of his embarcasary, enabled Hamblin to rid himself of his embarcasaments, and he purchased the theatre, the ground being mortgaged to Henry Astor. It reopened Aug. 10, 1836, with the following people: Blakeley, Jackson, Woodhull, Gates, Lewis, Rose, Percival, Gilbert, Germon, McCloskey, Burns, Masters Lovett and Burke, Misses Nelson, Cushman, Johnson, Mesdames Herring, Watts, Jackson, Fletcher and Percival.

Percival.

In September, 1828, Charlotte Cushman applied to Hamblin for an engagement. Hamblin expressed a desire to see her rehearse, notwithstanding she came well recommended to him by his friend Barton, of New Orleans, Miss Cushman shrewdly said that she was too much of a child to understand the advantages of a seecond class position in a first class theatre over a first class position in a first class theatre over a first class position in a forst class theatre over a first class position in a second class theatre over a first class position in a forst class theatre over a first class position in a first class theatre over a first class position in a forst class theatre over a first class theatre over a first class of the control of $22 a week for the first year, to increase 3 a week each year, the engagements were soon made by which a wardrobe was to be furnished her, Mr. Hamblin becoming responsible for the debt and deducting $5 a week from her salary to pay it. She made her debut Sept. 13, 1836, as Lady Macbeth to the Macbeth of Hamblin. But Miss Cushman was not destined to become a Bowery actress. For three weeks she was laid up with rheumatic fever; then, in a single week, she played Lady Macbeth, Mrs. Haller and Jane Shore. "succeeding," she says, "beyond my ective shore, and all her wardrobe, the debt upon it and her three years' contract 'ended in smoke." "La Fittle" was produced during September, 1836. During the progress of the play a vast amount of firing was done, and, unfortunately, a burning wad from one of the guns) soldged in the scenery. It was unnoticed at the time, but before the morning of Sept. 22, 1836, the beautiful theatre was again in ruins. The faames were discovered bursting forth from the rear of the building at 5.30 ecolocity. The building (owned by Hamblin), including all the scenery and properties, and the wardrobe of the guns) to the scene of the policy having expired for wind and properties, and the wardrobe of the guns and properties, and the wardrobe of the guns the scene

Mrs. Shaw, who had become a great favorite at the Park, was secured by Hamblin, and made her debut here May 13, as Alice Darvil, in "Ernest Maltravers." John Gilbert, a favorite in the Boston theatres, made his bow here June 13, as Sir Edward Mortimer, in "The Iron Chest." The satirical farce of "Victoria, or the Lion and the Kiss," was also given, and J. M. Field, another Boston favorite, appeared as Mr. Bennett. Mrs. W. H. Smith, from the Tremont Theatre, Boston, was the Queen Victoria. Dan Marble opened Aug. 26, in "Sam Patch." Sept. 9, 1839, Mme. Celeste reappeared. This lady made her American debut at this theatre in 1828, as a dancer. After making a tour in this country, she returned to England and made her debut in Liverpool as Fenella, in "Masaniello." During her American tour in 1828 she married Mr. Johnson, a Baltimore banker. She returned to America in 1834, and appeared at the Bowery Theatre Nov. 17, in "The French Spy." For her benefit on the 24th, "The Wizard Skift" was acted. July 4, 1836, she commenced a second engagement at this house. She reappeared her June 19, 1837. After a trip to England she once more reappeared in this city (Sept. 27, 1838), at the National, and again at that house in 1839. After playing at the Bowery in 1839, she went to the Park, where she opened Dec. 16 of the same year, and in May, 1840, she was at the New Chatham Theatre. She returned to England in 1841, but reappeared in America the next year at the Bowery; Sept. 26. "Jane Shore" was produced Aug. 10, with Mrs. Sloman (her first appearance at this theatre) as the heroine. Mrs. Shaw as Alicia and Hambilin as Hastings. Aug. 17, Mrs. Shaw played Romeo for Hambilin's benefit, and for her own benefit, on the 21st, she appeared as Hamlet and 22 as Romeo. Edwin Forrest acted Sept. 7, "Metamora;" 18, "Damon and Pythias;" 9 and 12, "The Gladdator;" 10, "Metamora;" 11 and 15, "Richard III;" 14, "Macbeth;" 16 and 17, "The Broker of Bogota;" and (for his benefit and last appearance) 18, "Richelleu" and "Therese." Forrest played Carwin to the Therese of Charlotte Barnes. The season closed Oct. 2, with "Richelleu" and "The Wonder," Miss Rock played Julie de Mortimer and Donna Violante. Miss Rock made her debut at the Park in 1840. She was brought to this country by William Pelby, for the Federal Street Theatre, Boston, and became a great favorite. She was a versatile actress, equally at home in farce, comedy, tragedy and opers. She owned a cottage at Harlem, N. Y., and George Holland, Edwin Forrest, G. P. Morris and N. P. Willis were great friends of hers, and frequently at her house. Her last appearance in this city was at this theatre Oct. 2, 1840, when she playing Julie de Mortimer to Forrest's Richelieu. She shortly after married the Earl of Murray, a capitain in the British army, became a titled lady, and left the stage. Her husband, seven years later, deserted her. Of late years she has been teaching music.

Well may Manager Al. Hayman call his theatre the New Baldwin, for such it is since the recent ex-tensive alterations and entirely new decorations have been completed. As you pass the box office and enter through the first doorway a scene of sur-pristing beauty and good taste breaks upon the prising beauty and good taste breaks upon the eyes, which, as you proceed farther, increases the spectator's wonder and pleasure until his thoughts begin to grow confused by the wealth of novelty and magnificent artistic effects which successively flash upon the view. You hardly believe it is the same theatre, so immeasurably has it been improved and seemingly enlarged. The first fact which becomes apparent is that the removal of the messanine and magnificent artistic effects which successively flash upon the view. You hardly believe it is the same theatre, so immeasurably has it been improved and seemingly enlarged. The first fact which becomes apparent is that the removal of the messanine boxes has been a great advantage, and that it seems to have added a space of nearly one-third to the space in the auditorium. DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL NOTES.

Hoyt & Thomas have engaged the following people for "A Tin Seldier." "A Hole in the Ground" and "A Brass Monkey." for the coming season: Charley Reed, George Richards, Eugene Canfield, Frank Lawton, Tim Murphy, Alf. M. Hampton, Ed. Poland, Julian Mitchell, C. F. Raymond, George Beane, Chas. Mitchell, W. F. Mack, Chas. Hadley, W. Ottis Harian, James Horan, M. Heckert, Jesse J. Jenkins, W. H. Jordan, Wm. Sellery, Frank Goss, Percy Gaunt, Thos. Nelson, Chas. Bulkley, Chas. Zimmerman, Frank McKee, E. B. Ludlow, Geo. Krewolf, Flors Waish, Alice Waish, Nettle Lyford, Bessie Tannehill, Fanny Stevens, Julia Mackey, Ross. France, Eva Holbrook, Bertie Lynne, Hattle Waters, Nannette Comstock, Georgie Lake, Istazie Leone, Marion Chase, Daisy Hall, Kate Davis, Isabelle Coe, Fannie Johnston, Marie Cahill and Florence Stephens. This list is incomplete, and negotiations are still in progress with several people of high reputation in farce comedy. "A Tin Soldier" and "A Hole in the Ground" will play two weeks each at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, and "Rassa Monkey" will go to the Bijou Opera House for a few weeks' stay, "A Midnight Bell," which enjoyed a successful run of three weeks this season, at the Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco, Cal., will most likely be done in this city, at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, and fill in the six weeks originally intended for "A Brass Monkey." "A Midnight Bell," though written somewhat on farce comedy lines, is more of a literary effort than Mr. Hoyt's other pieces, and will therefore require a strong dramafic cast for its production. Mr. Hoyt has on the stocks another farce comedy, which may be done next season. In this new piece he has attempted to depict, in a satirical way, one of the most popular fads now in vogue.

SOME NEW PRODUCTIONS

Charles Gayler's "Lights and Shadows" in Its Revised Form. Many alterations have been made in the above in its Revised Form.

Many alterations have been made in the above play since it was originally acted at Yonkers, N. Y., May 24, 1887, as "Under the Ring." It is, as the name implies, a play of strong contrasts, in which the refinement of high life and the coarseness of the low are well portrayed, and in which, also, the theme of a double life is well handled. The action takes place in and around New York, thus affording ample opportunity for the introduction of scenic pictures of well known metropolitan localities. This opportunity is well improved. Good views of a Summer villa on the Hudson, a fashionable artist's studio on Broadway, with a view of Madison Square, the Fifth Avenue Hotel, the Hoffman House, Broadway and Fifth Avenue, Inspector Byrnes' office, the East River, Brooklyn, the Briggs, Mother May's underground den, the Steel Room, the North River, Jersey City, a down town view of Broadway, Union Square, the Morton House and the Union Square Hotel are successfully produced. The plot treats of a brother's afforts to find his sister who, in her youth, had been stolen by a revengeful woman. He finds ler, her from the gang of scoundrels into whose hands she has fallen, caused him to commit a robbery and places him in a very compromising position, from which, however, he is happily and honorably extricated, and, as usual, villainy is defeated. The third act arouses the audience to an intense pitch of enthusiasm. In this act the hero again finds his sister, who is confined in an underground den in the power of Mother May and her brutal accomplices. Violence and indignity are heaped upon the unformate and desparate ruffana, is powerless to aid her. The den is supposed to be located near the East River. The brother is finally chained to the wall and left alone with his sister, while the water from the river pours into the subterranean trap. He is rescued by the evil genius of the play, and the sister's honor and life are pledged to him on condition that he shall aid in the robbery of his sweetheart and her f instrumental in bringing the villainous yang to justice, his love is rewarded, his sister's happiness assured, and all ends happily.

This new piece, by Nate Salsbury, was brought out at New the Haven, Ct., Opera House, June 2, by Frederic Bryton's Co., and proved a failure. Mr. Bryton expected it to open his next season. It will probably be rewritten and made stronger. The story ruus thus: Minnle Fay has been rescued from death several times, the last time by Rufus K. Gunn (the American Baron). Her rescueres have all proposed to her, but have been rejected, except the Baron. Her relatives, Lady Dairymple, Mrs. Willouchby and Sthel Orne, object to the marriage of their plan and tells his friend the Baron, who at once seeks a hearing with Lady Dairymple. He tells her the road she is about to take is infested with brigands and robbers, and implores her not to go. She doubts him, but will believe Lord Horbury, whom the Baron brings in, and he tells her that she can rely on anything that the Baron says. Count Girasole comes upon the scene, and, as he is one who has saved Minnle's life. Lady Dairymple asks him about her coat, one over the road without any same of the country of the Count to help them out of the dilemma, and again he proposes to Minnie. She refuses him, and is made a prisoner. Consternation is followed by saw when a band of brigands appear and level their cus a two friends arrive, but they are overnowered and all are taken prisoners. The third act finds the Baron tied in a cell, and Minnie and with the preacher and they meet a prisoner. Consternation is followed by saw when a band of brigands appear and level their cus two friends arrive, but they are overnowered and all are taken prisoners. The third act has been appeared by the Baron "The American Baron."

"Parvenues." P. S. M. Munro's new play first saw the light at the Amphion Academy, Williamsburg, N. Y. June 4. The scene is laid in Paris during the reign of Napoleon III, and the play deals with the experiences of a rich American family from Colorado, who go to France and pass through a series of thrilling mishaps, in part born of the ambition of the mother to marry her daughters into the nobility, and in part of the father's passion for gambling. Their two girls, who are a combination of French grace and American freedom, are drawn into the vortex of galety by their mother and state the rich grace and American freedom, are drawn into the vortex of galety by their mother and the rich grace and American freedom, are drawn into the order of the grace and the property of the grace of the good and the property of the grace of the girls, but had "never told his love" to her. He proves to be the good angel of the family, and brings them out of their troubles. He is the great comedy part of the play, though there is much of this element in the roles of the two girls and in that of a young, simple-minded captain who turns out a hero. The strong plot of the play is worked by the devilty of two young French noblemen, who, failing to marry the girls, set traps for their natural protectors. P. S. M. Munro's new play first saw the light at

NEW YORK CITY. Review of the Week .- With Mrs. James

Brown Potter's engagement at the Grand Opera House last week her first season as a star in Amer-ica came to a close. Monday night, June 4, she played Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons" and Thursday night Juliet—both for the first time in this city. She was applauded all along by excellent houses, and it was agreed that her art had improvhouses, and it was agreed that her art had improved in a hopeful degree. Her tour under Mr. Miner is believed to have been as prosperous as could have been expected under the peculiar circumstances that had from the first governed it.....In Charles Foster's "Under Cover," which made a week's stand at the Windeon, George C. Boniface clearly has a melodrama that must prove of value to him, intelligently and energetically handled. The story is interesting and easily followed; the language is direct and forcible, and the climaxes are quite strong. With slight revision the piece may be made "fetching" with the miscellaneous audiences that now patronize the circuit theatres. Mr. Boniface's work as Jerry Jumel, the good angel Mr. Boniface's work as Jerry Jumel, the good angel in drummer's clothes, was in his usual easy and unctuous vein. Below will be found the fire and several special calls for engines were rung on the signal box at Third Avenue and Fourteenth Street soon after 6.30 a. m. June 6, calling about fifteen companies of firemen to extinguish fiames in Tammany Hall. For an hour Fourteenth Street swarmed with firemen, policemen and excited men of many occupations who were anxious to help in saving the big building. Property worth $50,000 had been destroyed before the fire was under control, and the interior of Tony Pastor's Theatre (which surrounds and underlays the walls of Tam-many) had been wrecked. As usual in theatre man) had been averaged. As the walk of Tammany the properties were owned by the properties were owned by Tour Pastors as to the origin of the blace. be a doubtful question with some of the Tammany leaders, who claim that they need the room for their own purposes, and add that the income from rent would hardly relimburse them for the big out-lay required in the alterations. The theatre was first opened May 18, 1883, as Dan Bryant's Minstrei Hall, under the management of Dan and Neil Bryant. Before it became Tony Pastor's it was for a time the Germania Theatre.

Fire in Tony Pastor's .- Three alarms of

The Actors' Fund.-The seventh anniver sary of the Actors' Fund was held at the Mad-ison Square Theatre June 5, and was largely attended. The first serious business was the annual address of President Palmer. After speaking generally of the purpose and work of the association, he proceeded to a recapitulation of what had been accomplished during the six years of activity and for the year just ended. Expenses for the six years association, he proceeded to a recapitulation of what had been accomplished during the six years of activity and for the year just ended. Expenses for the six years were $95,853.53, an average of $15,975.58 per year. Receipts were $146,301.19, an average of $24,333.53 per year. The number of persons relieved was 1,509, and the number buried 332. Relief was furnished last year to 276 persons and burial for 48, at a total expense of $15,000. The association has enjoyed the free services of 15 physicians, who made 1,243 visits in this city and Brooklyn during the past year. Mr. Palmer spoke pleasantly of the work of Louis Aldrich, H. C. Miner and William Henderson in re-establishing the dramatic bureau under the direct control of the association, and asked for it the patronage of the profession. He also laid special emphasis on the interest shown by women in the association's work. There was a balance in the treasury a year ago of $17,207.15, and receipts since then of $25,318,73. Expenses for the year were $25,589.89, leaving cash on hand of $16,944.90, besides $27,000 in Government bonds, worth a premium of $7,188.75. The total on hand is $51,133.65. There were no important donations or legacies during the year. Mr. Palmer said that plans for an actors' house were moving along well. The committee to whom the matter had been intrusted had found a commedious house, now occupied by a prominent club, with a central location, and they hoped to acquire it and open it for use during the peat. The committee to whom the matter had been intrusted had found a commedious house, now occupied by a prominent club, with a central location, and they hoped to acquire it and open it for use during the coming year. Then Col. Ingersoil made an address, taking for his theme the work of the stage and the genius that had inspired and pushed it onward, discussing it in his usual vein. Then Lillian Russell sang, declined an encore, and made way for Dion Boucicault. I

"Est application of Proctor & Turner to erect a new building for theatrical purposes on the site of the Tabernacle on Twenty-third Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, into a theatre, has been granted and the plans approved. The new theatre will have a frontage of 75ft. on Twenty-third Street, and extend through to Twenty-fourth Street. The building will be constructed of brick, and special care will be taken to make it thoroughly fire-proof. There will be two balconies and handsome proscenium boxes of three tiers. The stage will be 35ft, deep, with no fly galleries, but by a special arrangement all scenery will be worked from the stage. Ample facilities have been provided for escape in case of fire, the plans calling for two broad alleyways on each side of the building leading direct to the street. The fire escapes will also be 18in. wider than the law requires. The floor of the auditorium will be laid on a concrete bed resting on the ground, and the inside walls will show ornamental brickwork. It is estimated that the new theatre will have a seating capacity of 1,700 and cost from $50,000 to $50,000. Sept. 1 is the date fixed for the completion. The architect is H. Edwards Ficken of this city.

With the performance of Saturday night, June 9, at the Graid Opera House, Mrs. J. B. Potter's season came to an end, and her business relations with Harry Miner terminated. After the performance Mr. Miner served Mrs. Potter on the threshold of her dressing room with the papers in an action to recover $3,842, money which Mr. Miner says he has advanced Mrs. Potter at various times during her last tour, and which has not been accounted for. It is understood that now the legal ball has been set rolling by Mr. Miner, Mrs. Potter will also take a han i at twirling it and that she will soon be plantiff instead of defendant in a suit where Mr. Miner will be called to respond in damages for various things.

J. Wasley Rosenquest, manager of the Fourteenth Street Theatre, was examined in the Supreme Court, June 9 by ex-Judge A. J. Dittenhoefer counsel for Harry Kennedy, proprietor of the "Lights and Shadows" Co., in a suit for damages for breach of contract. The object of the examination was to obtain facts to be emboded in the complaint. An appeal having been taken from a decision of Justice Lawrence denying a motion to vacate the order for the examination by Vanderpoel, Cuming & Goodwin, representing the defendants, Justice Andrews was asked for a stay pending the appeal, which he refused to grant. Mr. Kennedy claims that he made an agreement with Mr. Rosenquest for the presentation of his play at the theatre from April 9 to 21, which the defendant afterward refused to carry out, placing "The Still Alarm" on the boards instead Damages equal to the seating capacity of the house for each night covered by the agreement are claimed. The defendant on 9 testified that he had given orders to exclude the plaintiff and his company from the theatre.

Corinne comes 18 for a brief season, opening in "Arcadia."

Windson Thatatras.—Edmund K. Collier began a week of tragedy at this house June II, before a good sized and very enthusiastic audience, in "Virginius." Curtain calls were numerous, Mr. Collier, George Heath, Helena Moremus and Mrs. W. G. Jones being the recipiencs. As far as the performance went it was excellent, but the noise of those going out "to see a man" often drowned the voices of the actors. The bill will be changed nightly. On 15 Mr. Collier will take a benefit with "Julius Casar," when the cast will include, among other volunteers. T. W. Keene, John A. Lane and Mrs. Augusta Foster. The cast on 11 was: Virginius, Edmund Collier; Applus Claudis, T. E. Garrick; Icillius, George Heath; Dentaus, J. P. — Fanny Rice, late prima donna of the Catleton Opera Co., narrowly escaped drowning in the Merrimac River at Franklin, N. H., recently. She slipped from Black Rock, a huge boulder on the bank of the river, when her enormous Newfoundland dog Carleton sprang in and drew her ashore. She must have drowned except for the presence of the noble animal, as the current at that place runs fifteen miles an hour, and she cannot swim.
— Something has been said of Newton Beers' recent purchase of the theatrical property of the late W. E. Sheridan. This letter to The Clipper from Mr. Beers should set at rest any uncertainty as to the exact nature of his acquirements: "I have, by virtue of a legal bill of sale from Mr. Sheridan's wife, possession of the entire wardrobe, music, prompt books, side properties, banners and auxiliary dresses used in Mr. Sheridan's extensive repertory. My purchasing agent was Mr. Sheridan's former manager and dearest friend, William Nannery, well known throughout the profession. As my property was being resealed for reshipment from 'Frisco, on its arrival by steamer from Australia, Mrs. Sheridan asked to be permitted to retain a sword and a small cross used in 'Richelieu' by her husband, as mementos of him, which we cheerfully surrendered. Mrs. Sheridan has since presented the sword to a mutual friend, and I congratulate him on its acquisition."
— Charles Kompe, who is re-engaged as Frederic Bryton's advance for next season, was among Clipper Re Callers June 9. He informs us that "The American Baron," which Mr. Bryton tried at New Haven on the closing night of his season, is a dramatization by N. Salsbury of the novel of that name. DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

MRS. JAMES T. DALTON, better known to the patrons of music and drama as Salile Holman, her maiden name, died in London, Can., June 7, at the home of her parents. When a mere child Salile was the bright star of the Holman Family, which traveled all over this country and Canada doing light opera and extravaganza. She had a clear and cultivated voice, and she captured many an audience by her singing and naive style of acting. She was bown June 23, 183, at 100, Mass., and at the sarry section of the Salile Holman Parlor Co., and afterwards as prims donn as of her father's opera company. As a legitimate natural artist Salile Holman had few superiors or equals. Any person who ever had the privilege of witnessing her impersonation of two such totally distinct parts as Alida Bloodgood in "The Streets of New York" one night and Amina is "La Somnambula" the next could not but be struck with her extraordinary versatility. Her fidelity to her parents kept her in a narrow groove, which otherwise would have led to a world wide reputation. In private life she was beloved much. Her idelity to her parents kept her in a narrow groove, which otherwise would have led to a world wide reputation. In private life she was beloved much. Of a naturally nervous temperament, she was hard to know, but those who knew her she never forgot. The well known theatrical editor of The London: "Tizer" says: "in private life Mrs. Dailton was much loved by those who knew her, and those who knew her the most loved ler the ning a soor heart has been cheered by her unostentatious bounty." In 1869 she was the leading lady and prima donna of the Royal Lyceum Theatre, Ontario, appearing with success both in drama and opera. She was married in 1879 to James T. Dalton, a baritone and a member of the Holman company. She was prostrated with hemmorrhage of the lungs last February, and from the effects of this she nover recovere!. This exqueen of light opera was known, probably, in every city of the four Holman children, who were, perhaps, the pioneers in the luvenile opera business thirty years ago. Their mother was first Mrs. Harriet Phillips and next Mrs. George Holman. From her union with Holman came Salle, Julia and Allie, and from the former union Benny. Mrs. Holman, the mother was for ten years one of the most useful members of the stock company at Burton's Theatrs, in this city. She brought her children up for a stage life, and Sallie in particular rewarded her experience, and for years she headed the Holman English Opera Co. Her versatility seemed to know no limit. She could play in "The Life of an Actress" and "Il Trovatore" on alternate nights, and in the field of the protean drama she was in her time absolutely without a peer. With her in various years famous actors and actresses have appeared. William H. Crane of Robson and Crane, for instance, made his very first appear about an adversal was his brother—but the Holman used to be positive on this point. THE TRIGGER.

THE REVOLVER CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Withdrawal of Paine Leaves the Question of Ability Undecided.

The match between Chevalier Ira A. Paine of Providence, R. I., and F. E. Bennett of Boston, Mass., for the revolver shooting championship of America and $1,000 a side, commenced on June 4, at Hampden Park, Springfield, Mass., under the auspices of the Springfield Revolver Club. The conditions of the match were as follow: Each contestant to fire six hundred shots, one hundred shots per day for six consecutive days, at a distance of fifty measured yards, on the standard American 2003ds. Fife target, revolvers to be Smith & Wesson, 44 caliber, Russian model, with three pound pull and not over 6½. In. barrel; ammunition to be factory make, in unbroken boxes, of any one of the following companies: United States Cartridge Co., Union Meiallic Cartridge Co., or the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. A clause in the agreement read: "All conditions of the match not herein specified to be governed by the shooting rules of the National Rifle Association." The first three days' shooting took place at the park above mentioned, and the last three at Narragansett Park, Providence. The weather throughout was favorable, but the attendance of spectators was not large on any day during the contest. On the opening day Patue appeared in the better form, and gained a good lead, the score at the close of the first instalment of the match standing: Paine, 867; Bennett, 837. The former's best ten shot string was 93, and that of his opponent 92. On the second day Bennett did better, scoring during the afternoon eight points more than the Chevalier. Score: Bennett, 887; Paine, 879. Total for the two days: Paine, 1746; Bennett, 1,24. On the third day the Bostonian still further reduced his adversary's lead by half a dozen points, the score being: Bennett, 866; Paine, 860, the figures for the thay being: Bennett 40, 500, the first has for four days shooting: Faine, 870, the score being: Bennett, 879; Paine, 872, Paine, 872, Paine protested to Referce Bull against permitting Bennet to a tring which Bennett bad been Question of Ability Undecided.

The match between Chevalier Ira A. Paine of Providence, R. L., and F. E. Bennett of Boston, resuming the contest, 3 F. M. on June 8, Paine's judge handed the following formal protest to the referee:

Providence, R. I., June 8, 1888. Milian Bull, referee in the Paine-Bennett revolver match now in progress—tate that my principal is prepared and ready to go on and finish this match with military sights, such as the articles of agreement call for. If Mr. Bennett request to this, Chevalier Paine hereby withdrawarform the match and claims the stake on account of such requisal, and on his protest against the persistent infringe-regulations of the National Rife Association. New York Dexyrsa, Judge for Chevaller Ira Paine.

Referee Bull read the protest and stated that, as the had allowed the use of the sights on the previous days, he could not entertain a protest against them then, and he ordered the men to proceed with the match. This Paine declined to do, and left the grounds, while Bennett fired his one hundred shots, scoring 878 points, including a string of 92. On the following day, in the presence of the referce, his signed who be submitted to the scoretary of the National Rife Association which holder for the money, but the latter had been enjoined by Paine from giving up the stakes, and the case will now be submitted to the secretary of the National Rife Association of America shall make a decision which shall be final." Aside from the alleged violations of the rules, it is given as a reason for Paine's with chrawal from the match that he had been subjected to many annoyances from the commencement, and the case will now be submitted to the secretary of the National Rife Association of America shall make a decision which shall be final." Aside from the alleged violations of the rules, it is given as a reason for Paine's with the sacretary of the National Rife Association of America shall make a decision which shall be final." Aside from the alleged violations of the rules, it is given as a reason for Paine's with the sacretary of the National Rife Association of America shall make a decision which shal it being against his principle to seek to secure an advantage in any manner that was not entirely honorable, he decided to quit when his protest was not entertained, even at the risk of prejudicing his case. He felt satisfied that he could have won the match on his merits, but under the circumstances he decided that the more gentlemanly course for him to pursue, when he found that his rights were denied him, was to retire, looking elsewhere for instice.

The handicap bicycle race from Chicago to Fullman, Ili., took place on Decoration Day. The contest was made up of entries from all the prominent bicycle clubs of Chicago, and the course was from the Leland Hotel, that city, to the Hotel Florence, Fullman, a stated distance of sixteen miles, but protably fifteen miles is nearer the mark, as it is less than fourteen by the railroad. The train bearing the timekeepers did not arrive before some of the contestants, and therefore there is some question as to the accuracy of the time given. There were about seventy starters, and the foremost arrivals were in order as follow; A. E. Lumsden, Ft. Dearborn Club, 1h, 47s.; H. E. Loveday, Illinois Club, 86m. 27s.; H. E. AQUATIC.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—While the yacht Gleam, the property of T. Harrison Garrett, was returning to baitimore from Annapolis, the owner and a party of friends being on board, she was run down by the steamer Joppa off Seven Foot Knoll in the Patapaco River, on the night of June 7. The yacht was struck amidships and almost cut in two, sinking immediately. All hands on board of the ill fated boat were rescued with the exception of Mr. Garrett, who is stated to have failen overboard while attempting to reach the deck of the Joppa. So far all efforts to resover the body have proved futile. Deceased was a brother of Robert Garrett and manager of the banking firm of Robert Garrett A Sons of Baltimore. The unfortunate affair has created a profound sensation in yachting and business circles in that city, where Mr. Garrett had many warm friends.

ARRESTED.—Two lightweights named Jack Ryan of Providence, R. I., and Joe Day of Brooklyn, N. Y., fought for a purse of fifty dollars in a room in the lower part of this city early on the morning of June 9. Neither contestant is skilled in the art, but both were in dead earnest, and they fought victously until the end of the sixth round, when Ryan gave up and the battle was declared in favor of his opponent. Just at that moment the police made a descent on the party and a stampede was made, all escaping with the exception of the principals and their friends Joe Fowler and Tom smith, who were arraigned at the Tombs Police Court later in the day and held for examination on a charge of violating the laws against prize fighting.

The fifteenth annual regatta of the Vesper Boat Club was held on the Schuylkill River, Philadelphia, on Saturday afternoon, June 9, and was witnessed by algoodly crowd, many of those present being ladies. W. H. Mende won the single gig race in 6m. 48s., beating B. P. Elliott, G. King and M. Foelker. C. H. Elliott and G. S. James captured the double sculls in 6m. 6s., coming in ahead of W. B. McManus and L. Von Soldeneck, and J. H. Beck and A. J. Cottingham. The four oared gig race was won in 6m. 30s., by L. Von Soldeneck (bow), G. S. James, W. E. Jenks and J. Boyer (stroke). The defeated crews were C. H. Elliott (bow), A. J. Cottingham, W. B. McManus, McDonnell (stroke), and B. P. Elliott (bow), T. J. Allen, J. Parke, M. Foelker (stroke). In the cipht oared shell race the winning crew comprised H. McMillan Jr. (bow), F. Munson, M. Foelker, J. Parke, C. H. Elliott, A. J. Cottingham, L. Von Soldeneck, McDonnell (stroke), C. F. The following appears in the official circular is-sued by the secretary of the N. A. A. O. A., which sued by the sccretary of the N. A. A. O. A., which gives needed particulars regarding the location of Sunbury, Pa., where the annual regata is to be held this year, and of the course over which the races are to be rowed: "Sunbury is located on the Susquehanna River, fitty-three miles north of Harrisburg, nearly in the centre of the State of Pennsylvania. The course is on a dam nine miles in length, entirely straight and free from any obstructions; is directly in front of the town, and readily accessible by competing lines of railroad from all parts of the country. The Pennsylvania, Philadelphia and Reading, belaware, Lackawanna and Western, Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, and New York and Erie Bailroad make direct connections to Sunbury. A supplementary circular with further information as to the best routes and reduced prices will be issued later."

Yachting on the Sound.

The opening regatta of the season among the larger boats was that of the Larchmont Yacht The opening regatta of the season among the larger boats was that of the Larchmont Yacht Club, sailed on Long Island Sound on Saturday, June 9. The weather was fine and there was plenty of wind, but as the better class of boats did not compete so generally as usual, the regatta was not as great a success as heretofore. The Shamrock was there, and much regret was expressed that her rival, the Titania, did not start also, as the presence of both would have largely increased the interest felt in the regatts. Among the contestants was the new Burgess sloop Nymph, whose admirers predicted that she would carry off the prize in her class, but she failed to quite come up to the mark, although sailing well throughout. The Shamrock quickly rar into the lead, which she maintained to the finish without trouble. The new courses were found to be a great improvement on those formerly sailed over, as now the boats of the different classes are enabled to finish at nearly the same time. They are as follow: For class 3, from a mark off Orienta Point to a mark off Hempstead Harbor; thence to a mark off Stamford, returning over the same course, a distance of twenty-seven miles. Classes D, E, 3 and 6, after passing the Hempstead Harbor mark, went to a mark off Captain's Island, returning over the same course, a distance of twenty-seven miles. The starting signal was given at 11.62 and the order of the first half dozen at the first mark was as follows: Shamrock, Huron, Daphne, Fanny, Anaconda and Agnes. Wind and tide were with the fleet after turning, and with spinnakers to port the speed of the racers increased, while the Fanny improved her position, running into second place, but being unable to prevent the Shamrock steadily increasing her lead. Only half a dozen yachts were timed at the Captain's Island mark, passed as follows: Daphne, Agnes, Adelaide, Leona, Cilo and Nymph. The order of rounding the Stamford mark was: Shamrock, Fanny, Huron and Anaconda, the leader being nearly five minutes ahead. The respective positions of the ed sailing time: CLASS D-SCHOONERS.

The Iona Boat Club of Philadelphia held their Spring regatta on May 30, the winners being as follow: Pair oared giga—Wm. H. Hanson (bow), Wm. R. Arinstrong (stroke), E. T. At Loggerheads.—There is considerable talk in yachting circles over a highly sensational affair between Commander W. H. Low and Vice Commander Sands of the Rhode Island Yacht Club. Low's yacht, Onward, and Sand's yacht, Peri, were entered for the race at Fall River, Mass., May 28. Just before the race Low was informed by the committee that his yacht was barred out on account of its size, that Sands had refused to start if he did, and for that reason they had decided to bar the Onward out. This enraged Commodore Low to such an extent that he ordered his captain to "blanket" the Perl. He obeyed orders, and the race was won by the Mignon. It is probable that the affair will be ventilated at the coming meeting of the club.

THE New Jersey Yacht Club have opened their annual regatts, to be held on June 18, to yachts of all organized clubs, which will doubtless have the effect of considerably increasing the usual number of starters. Provided there are more than three starters in a class two prizes will be given. The club have chartered the iron steamboat Cygnus for the accommodation of club members and their guests, and she will leave the foot of Fifth Street, Hoboken, at 9.30, foot of West Twenty-third Street at 9.45 and Pier 1, this city, at 10.15 a. M.

THE Lake Champlain Yacht Club held their annual meeting at Burlington, Vt., a few days ago, the following officers being chosen: President, ex-Governor J. G. Smith; first vice president, pr. W. S. New York's See-sawing too Much for a Nervous Man-General Gossip.

[Specially Reported for The New York Clipper.]
NEW YORK, June 11.—There were many changes the positions of the clubs of the National League during the past week. It was one continual bobbing up and down like a cork in the water, and it kept one guessing all the time. The race was entirely too uncertain to be enjoyed. This was surely the case in this vicinity. The New Yorks jumped from fourth place to second during the earlier part of the week, and then dropped back to their old position, but closed the week's work as third in the championship race. This see-sawing of the clubs is too much for the nervous system, and when the week ends one day is not long enough to build yourself up to prepare for another dose of it. They should try and arrange it so that the teams could maintain their positions for at least two days at a time. But such is life, and I suppose we will have to abide with it as long as the game exists. For it is the uncertainty of the game that keeps up the interest in it. The New Yorks are not playing a steady game, or the one they will or are capable of playing when they once settle down to business. There was a marked contrast in the two games played on the Polo Grounds June 7 and 8, with the Washingtons and Chicagos. It only goes to show that the team has not settled down to its work. Of course, it cannot be expected to win every game it plays, but a little more uniformity in its work will bring better results. The last two games has established the fact beyond a doubt that O'Rourke and Ewing should be kept in the team all the time. When Ewing is catching, play O'Rourke in the outfield, and vice versa. Then when either Brown or Murphy is catching keep Ewing in the team and let O'Rourke lay off. The outfield in Ewing, Slattery and Tiernan would be remarkably streng. The club would then have a chance to develop a third baseman. This continual changing of the men on the infield does the team no good.

Little "Mickey" Welch is certainly in excellent form the season and he is utterly and the season and he is utterly and the season and the se tirely too uncertain to be enjoyed. This was surely se in this vicinity. The New Yorks jumper no good.

Little "Mickey" Welch is certainly in excellent form this season, and he is pliching as good ball as he was ever known to do. Time has left not traces on his work. If he can only hold his present pace he will be the star plicher of the National League this year. Mickey is an earnest and hard working little player. No man seems to work harder to win than Welch does, and it is a pleasure to sit and watch him. He is on the alert all the time, and watches every ball that is hit hy a batsman. Of the other plichers, Keefe has not struck his gait as yet. However, when he does he will pitch a fine game of ball. Everyone knows what Tim can do, and his "slow drop" is very annoying to the batsman. Tim will be himself again before many more days pass away. Titromb is also doing excellent work, and has proved beyond a doubt that he is able to hold his own in the class he is now traveling in. Weldman has only pitched in one championship game thus far this season, but he pitched a fine game on that occasion, and if he can only hold the pace which he set for himself he will be of untold strength to the team before the season is over. Crane needs more work to develope his powers as a pitcher. He should have at least two games a week to do himself justice. The little work he gets does not improve him in the least. Roger Connor doesn't seem to have lost the use of his bat. The way he is piling up safe hits is certainly very encouraging. He will not be far away from the head of the list next Fall when the official was slowly handled by Ryan, shows that he is wide awake while on the bases, and is always ready to take advantage of any little mispivy made by an opposing fielded. Roger is also playing his position this season for all it is worth. He saves the boys many an error by stopping widely thrown balls to first base.

Up to the present writing Tiernan has not made his appearance with the team. Since he was spiked by an opposing fielder. Roger is also playing his position his season of the lost time of past years. Ever ever, on the New York team. Therefore, on June 9, when the gong sounded for the New Yorks to come on the field, elighteen members of the team, headed by the veteran Jack Lynch, who had a bat for a wand, appeared in swallow tailed linen dusters and high white hats and marched to the home plate. It was a curious sight, and the 13,714 persons, who had assembled to witness a game of ball, greatly enjoyed the fun. They gave vent to their feelings in shouts of applause, as it was the greatest burlesque ever witnessed on a ball field. The farce will long be remembered by all who saw it. It may and probably had its desired effect, but should never again be repeated. The dignity of the national game should be upheld at all times, and any attempt to belittle it should at once be checked. Such performances would have been bad enough in a cheap variety troupe who had started out to burlesque the game, but it was entirely out of place in a first class professional team, and it is to be hoped that the projectors of the scheme will never again be allowed to repeat their absurd performances.

The Brooklyn team is still keeping up its good work, notwithstanding the many predictions that it would take a tumble when the Cincinnatis and St. Louis Browns would meet it. Brooklyn may well be proud of its team, and the liberal way in which the public is supporting the team shows how truly it appreciates thei good work. The Brooklyn is appreciates their good work. The Brooklyn is appreciated they did the Cincinnatis, who held the lead when they came to Brooklyn. It certainly looks as if Brooklyn has a winning team at last. The season is not over, by any means, and the Brooklyns may met all the other American Association teams, and an one of them did they vanquish much more easily than they did the Cincinnatis, who held the lead when they came to Brooklyn. It certainly looks as if Brooklyn has a winning team at last. The season is not over, by any means, and the Brooklyns may not win the pennant, but there is some satisfaction in knowin

Improvement in the Play of the Athletics-Hit and Miss Chat.

[Special Correspondence of The New York Clipper.]
PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—The Athletics have been playing good ball during the past two weeks, and have showed what stuff is in them. For a while the team was handicapped by the absence of Lyons, but as soon as he recovered from his injuries and resumed his place on third, the infield went back to its old arrangement and to its old strength. The team picked up in playing and was strength. The team picked up in playing and was in first class trim to meet the Cincinnati Reds. It was generally considered here that during the week of the Reds' visit to this city the Athletics would find the hardest work of the season cut out for them, but the result was a surprise to everybody. To get two out of the four games even would have satisfied the admirers of the team but four straight victories from the heralded pennant winners sent Athletic stock away up. The Athletics played strong ball all through and pulled out of some very close places. When they did not play the finest ball the visitors magnine of the strong the strong that the control of the strong that the strong the strong ball all through and pulled out of some very close places. When aged to make the more damaging errors. What is the matter with the Cincinnatia is hard to determine. Manager Schmeltz while here, said that the absence of McPhee was the source of weakness. The reason for their weak playing must be looked for beyond the absence of McPhee, whose substitute on record. Kappel, is a very capable player, and he did good work while here. The trouble seemed to be that the Cincinnatis ran up against the Athletics, while the latter were doing some heavy batting, and they were defeated and disheartened by their bad record in Brooklyn and Haltimore. Further than that there is assaption that the players were transgressing rules of discipline. "Kid" Baldwin was disciplined pretty heavily while here for dissipation, and other members of the club were given warning of what they might expect if there was not a change for the better. If the Athletics will only maintain the form they showed in the Cincinnati series they will not be long in getting up into a position to make a fight with the leaders.

There was a rumer aftoat last week that Manager Sharsig was looking for further strength in the batting department. The strength was to be obtained by the payment to Von der Ahe of $3.00, with Sullivan and Larkin, for "Tip" O'Neil, the hard hitting left fielder of the Browns. The man who invented and set aftoat the rumor must have been crasy. The Athletics would never make such an offer, and never thought of such a deal, though they would like nothing better than to add "Tip" O'weil, the hard hitting left fielder of the Browns. The man who invented and set aftoat the rumor must have been crasy. The Athletics would never make such as no fifer, and here is the such as a semantary leader they would like nothing better than to add "Tip" O'weil, the hard hitting left fielder of the Browns. The man who invented here the was a semantary leader they would like nothing better than to add "Tip" O'weil, the here the beach was the first locatch it, to the extent of $10 for saying the was not out when the set of well, they had the satisfaction of winning three of the order of such and they are the pass of the process of the control of t spiendid lead and the fact that Christians is neck and neck with the Browns has weakened enthusiasm in the old Missouri town. They need a Moses like Anson to lead them out of the wilderness. At present they are in the Red Sea of despair because Caruthers and Bushong are playing such a magnificent game on Long Island.

Very different is the feeling in Chicago. Anson & Co. still lead the National League and the three victories in Philadelphia prove that there is splendid mettle in the coits. When the Chicago Club go on the field spectators see nine men playing as one. There is no horse play and no favoritism. The belief here is strongly grounded that the "claw-hammers" will get back home at the top of the list. If they do, look out for the sharpest fight you have ever seen between Chicago and Detroit.

Director Vall of Detroit was here today. He says they are satisfied in the Wolverine State that if the championship does not go to Detroit it will reward the Spaiding legion, and by them be given to the breeze in far away Australia under the Southern cross.

Clarence Duval, the colored mascot of the Chi-ward the Spaiding legion, and by them be given to the breeze in far away Australia, under the Southern cross.

Clarence Duval, the colored mascot of the Chicago Club, will be a great favorite here. On the stage he was a variety specialty artist before Miss Vernons Jarbeau found him. I saw him at a little country hall a year ago, where he did a juggling act and a clog dance. He can sing like a lark, and has committed to memory all the old plantation melodies like "Way Down in Old Mobile," "Down on the Cambric" and "Bowery Gais, Ain't You Comin' Out To Night." His dancing suggests Bobby Newcomb. The Chicago-Club will bring their mascot "out" in gilded elegance.

Ryan, Burns and Pfefer are the heroes of our army in the East to date. In seven games Ryan has made twelve hits and accepted 23 out of 24 chances. Pfefer has made nine hits and sceepted 39 in 43 chances. Tom Burns is playing a game that carries him to the head of the list among third basemen. In thirteen games he has not made an error, and during the Eastern campaign has accepted 25 chances. Filmt and Fettit have also played without errors. Anson's batting thus far this season has been below his average, but there are condident partisans of his here who have a suapicion that the old man is walting to demonstrate to Clarkson with his wagon tongue bat just why he released him.

to Clarkson with his wagon tongue bat just why he released him.

A letter received from Jimmy Ryan says: "Cap, Fred and myself are waiting to interview Clarkson. Wait and see what kind of a lead pencil I use when I tackie him." Ryan is, in my opinion, the most spirited boy who is playing America's game this Summer. His confidence in himself is something wonderful. Anson himself does not face a pitcher with more self possession than Ryan displays. His fielding, his ability in the box, his batting and base running stamp him as a most valuable man.

The terrible pounding which Van Haitren received in New York today is the sensation of the town here tonight. Men are going about the streets and asking how it all happened. When the Bostons punished Van 20 to 5, a muddy, wet ball and wintry air explained it, but there is no such excuse this time. The record of base hits off Van Haitren proves that either he was not himself or that swift pitching and not fanny curve pitching is in demand. The absence of Ba'dwin will no doubt weaken the club. Burns' error on Friday, June 8, was the first in fourteen games.

Robson and Crane, the comedians, close a lengthy engagement here this week. They have spent all the time which their profession permits them to give to recreation to the mad hilarity of the amateur ball field. The "Paul Kauvar" company organized a baseball nine and challenged the Board of Trade Club. The actors were defeated by then runs, but they charged their discomfuture to the umpire just like regular professionals of the diamond field. Crane is much depressed over the poor showing recently made by his favorites, the Boston players. He has recently lost six packages of Kindergarten famibeaux (cigarettes) on the wretched work of Kelly & Co. He says he is tired of buying terra cottal lung paint for men who bet against the Bostons.

A careful count made from a study of all the Chicago papers for the last ten days, shows that there against the Boatons.

A careful count made from a study of all the Chicago papers for the last ten days, shows that there are 612 amateur baseball clubs in this city, whose scores appear in print. There must be between 7,000 and 8,000 boys organized for play on the prairie, for in the number of clubs mentioned the 38 clubs in the minor leagues are not included. It is probable that this is the greatest ball city in the world. The prizes promised players in our minor leagues, by prominent business houses, will coat fully $1.500. A single medal coats $00.

The Cleveland and Thurman Baseball Club was organized here yesterday, and advertised this morning that it would like to play the Greshams.

CINCINNATI'S BUDGET.

The Reds and Their Admirers Plunged in Grief-How It Happened. [Special Correspondence of The New York Clipper.] CINCINNATI, June 10.—There is sorrow in the camp of the Reds where a fortnight ago there was joy. The four straight victories over the Cleveland Club have been forgotten, and the spectre that haunts the whole town—erstwhile so baseball mad—is the memory of the terrible experience of the haunts the whole town—crstwhile so baseball mad—is the memory of the terrible experience of the petted Cincinnatis in Baltimore and Brocklyn and Philadelphia, and yet the Reds came back with only two more defeats than they counted on their fingers before they departed for James Williamstown, in the County of Cuyahogo, "Oho." They said they expected to win at least half of the games to be played on the trip—that meant eight out of sixteen. The programme was not carried out. Rain prevented one of the Baltimore games, and instead of eight defeats the Reds austained ten. Had the club broken even in Cleveland and won one each from Byrne's and Sharsig's teams, the sadness would not now be so weary. Even the glory of the ten straight so recently won from St. Louis, Louisville and Cleveland fades when contrasted to the eight defeats administered in the City of Brotherly Love and that by the big bridge. How fickle the dear public is! Two weeks ago baseball was the sole topic of conversation in Cln-cinnati. Politics, the turf, theatrical matters—all paled in comparison. That was when the Reds were winning. Now, "the boys" so affectionately termed a few days ago, are referred to as "the Dubs," and I received a pack of posial cards today, mailed from towns where "fams" do abound, upon which were printed such inscriptions as "Whydon'tyou get a club that can play ball?" And yet a few victories as a sequel to that spell of dismaldefeat and all the disappointments will be forgotten, and those who are loudest in their words of condemnation now will be among the first to sing the praises of the great "braced up."

A year ago the Cincinnatis were in a far worse position than they occupy today. Then they were sixth and now they are third. No valid excuse can be given for the execrable work of the Cincinnatic team in the East. It is abourd to say that they are not capable of playing a better game of ball than the one they did. They were weighted down by a superstition's dread that they could not shake off. St. Louis or Brooklyn, wi petted Cincinnatis in Baltimore and Brooklyn and

"One thing is certain," remarked Mr. Stern to The CLIPPER correspondent, with a grimness born of despair, "I'm going to get a club here that can play bail. I'll not disband just yet. If there is a weak spot in the nine I'll strengthen it, no matter what the outlay may be."

There was a storm in managerial quarters to-day, and the atmosphere presages a "bracing up." McPhee will doubtless be able to go West with the Reds next Monday night, and there are people who think "Biddy" back in the ranks will restore confidence that ought never to have been lost in the first place. Cincinnati's players are too sensitive. They think too highly of "mascots," and seem to think that "fate," and not good bail playing, wins games. Had they put up anything like their usual game, they would have added at least four victories to their Eastern collection, which is so slim that it looks as if it had been struck by lightning. Even Kansas City's plie is greater.

The work of the Heds' quartet of pitchers in the series just finished forms a pretty study. Viau was the most effective, if figures tell the truth and figures never lie. In the four games in which he pitched, opposing clubs scored twenty runs, only eight of which were earned. Elmer Smith pitched in the same number of contests and the "other feliows" made twenty earned runs out of a total of thirty-nine of his delivery. Fifteen earned out of the forty made off Muliane in six games gives Tony second place in point of effectiveness, while Serad ranks—last, six earned runs out of fourteen being the record against him. Elmer Smith's work has been discouraging this year—very discouraging, and the only really good game he has pitched was that 4 to 3 thirteen inning battle in Brooklyn. He has gone West to recuperate—to get a "Hot Springs arm" as the boys say, and if he can pitched was that 4 to 3 thirteen inning battle in Brooklyn. From Denver comes rumors of a break up in the Western League. George Creighton and Teddy Coyne, who played there, arrived home to-day. Ramsey has not reported at Canton, and he may reconsider his idea of playing professional ball. Mansfield has signed W. F. Balley, who was with Wheeling last season and Birmingham part of this. The Johnson boys, who are members of the Wainut Hill team of the Miami Valley League, are sons of J. W. Johnson, one of the fielders of the famous old Reds of '87 and '85. Their father displays with pride a medal given bim in the latter year by The Clipper for meritorious play. He is now a prominent Cincinnal attorney.

OUR BOSTON BATCH.

Too Much of One Umpire—Talk About
"Bad Luck" Again—Gossip.

[Special Correspondence of the New York Clipper.]
Boston, June 11.—Patrons here are in a great turmoil on account of the hard luck of the Bostons in recent games. Besides work in the field, in base running and coaching that has been below the mark, the team has certainly bad luck. Still, the falling off has been no worst than it has been with other clubs. Detroit had its turn early in the seaother clubs. Detroit had its turn early in the sea-son, and it remains to be seen how Chicago is to come out. Naturally the umpire has had to take his share of the blame. Lynch makes his mistakes, and has made any quantity of close decisions against the home team, but his work has been no worse than that of any of the umpires. The kick more than anything else was because we have had one umpire for thirteen successive games. We thought that it was high time for a change. Out West, out of the twenty-seven games, we had Lynch in eight—a total of twenty-one games out of more than anything else was because we have had one umpire for thirteen successive games. We thought that it was high time for a change. Out West, out of the twenty-seven games, we had Lynch in eight—a total of twenty-one games out of forty. Lynch cannot umpire from behind the catcher. That is settled. If we can't have the two umpire system, we must have the umpire behind the pitcher when men are on bases. The veteran McLean tried it on Saturday at the Harvard-Yale game, and was at once delighted with it. He confesses that it is the only way to umpire the game, and goes so far as to say that there is no need of two umpires with the umpire in the centre of the diamond. I won't admit this, for a man has all he can attend to in a game to attend to balls and strikes, and I hold that the umpire who looks out for this department should not be compelled to do sny run ning around. This holds especially true in hot weather. Few umpires could stand the running around that Gaffuey has to do with the thermometer indicating over 90 degrees. Won't he have a time of it this secson if he tries to do much around under a devouring sun? I saw Umpire Lon Knight officiate at Salem last Thursday. He stands behind the pitcher and there is not so much as a kiek with him. Tom Bond also umpires from this position. As matters stand, these officials, one and all, are a signal failure. They cannot well be anything else in the nature of things. No umpire has made such a signal failure. They cannot well be anything else in the nature of things. No umpire has made such a signal failure. They cannot well be anything else in the nature of things. No umpire has made such a signal failure on base decisions as has this Lynch. Had he been in the diamond when he made these decisions he would have had no trouble. Again, when a man oversildes a base, especially at second, an umpire has got to be very near the spot to make a correct decision. Men are often caught napping at all of the bases, and the umpire (Lynch) was howled at and jeered at because he ne National League, with such men as Al. Spalding, John I. Rogers and John R. Day at its head, should allow matters to go along as has been the case.

The New England League has been not a little broken up by the disbanding of the Portlands. The club was disappointed in the selection of Myers as manager and captain, and sank so low that interest died out and the players found it impossible to get out of the rut. In Mitchell, the club had one of the best pitchers in the New England League. Fusselbach led the third basemen in fielding, and there were several other good players. Mitchell and disboon were sold to Salem and Fusselbach to Worcester. Now it is currently reported that Lynn will go the way of Portland on account of the heavy expenses the club is under. This simply re-cchoes what The C.I.Prek has said about the expenses in the minor leagues. Lynn has a strong team, and the attendance has averaged about 400 or 500 per game. Henry Murphy, the proprietor of the franchise, had to go deep into his pocket last season, and he cannot go on this year without a repetition of that experience. He is now several hundred dollars in arrears to the New England League, and has not yet pald for the reservation privilege, being the only club that has not so done. The only clubs that have made money are Salem and Worcester, while Manchester and Lowell are nothing behind to speak of. The Lowells are champions, and they have not received the support they have deserved. The four clubs that will play out the season are very evenly matched and will have a splendid struggle for championship honors. There is some splendid material in the clubs. Salem has a splendid trio of pitchers in Turner, Bingham and Mitchell. These young men are all graduates from college teams—Turner from Amherst, Bingham from Harvard and Mitchell from the Pennsylvania State College. Then this club has in its third baseman Goodwin, who was connected as captain and player for several seasons with the Colby (Mc). University nine. The club is splendidly managed Holmes Field, Cambridge, presented its usual gala sight on Saturday, when Yale and Harvard met for the second time this season. Naturally, it was expected that Yale, with the "invincible" Starg and Dann, would have a walk over, but, strange to say, the second time this season. Naturally, it was expected that Yale, with the "invincible" Stagg and Dann, would have a walk over, but, strange to say, the club played the worst game ever seen in an organization of its reputation and record. The players muffed and fumbled and threw wretchedly, and in the second inning Harvard made four runs on one hit. Bates, a freshman, pitched for Harvard, and he struck out ten men. Harvard cut two men off at the plate by fine throws of Howland and Boyden from the outfield. The enthusiasm was intense and the seene an inspiring one. The attendance was over 6.00 and the laddes were out in force. The victorious nine was shouldered after the game and borne to the gymnasium. In the evening there was a bonfire, cheering, music, etc. On the field, to witness the game, were ex-Captains Harold Ernst, Billy Coolidge and Sam. Winslow of Harvard, and Sam. Bremner of Yale. There was a good sized delegation from Yale present, and even after the game was over, it was with difficulty that they could bring themselves to believe that their idols had been shattered. Harvard has but to win one game to win the college championship. The next contest will take place at Cambridge on June 23.

The drubbing that Hardie Henderson got in Lowell led to his release. Campion, the first baseman of the local team, went to the bat six times, made six hits and stole five bases. The veteran loce quest made a home run. These New England clubs are very apt to take a ball away from the Leaguers and Worcester is going to try it on Boston on Wednesday. This Worcester Club has in Stovey the first colored player ever on a new England League club.

Doyle, second baseman of the Manchesters, also performed the feat of making six hits in a game, six times at the bat, at Manchester, N. H., June s, off Pitcher Stafford of the Worcesters, including a double and a home run. He scored five runs, as many as Worcester made in the whole game.

Kelly still leads the nipe in batting, in runs made, hits made, and bases stolen. The Burt co. are to give a dozen shirts to the Boston player who steals the greatest number of bases during the seaton. It looks as if Kelly would win both this prize and the bicycle for the largest number of runs. Pitcher Hengler of the Lynns has had trouble with his eyes, and has been ordered by a Boston oculist to take a rest. He has gone to Cincinnati. The Lynns have released Behan, second baseman. Umpire Gill of the New England League has gone to Brooklyn. He has been replaced by Ned Burden.

Burden.

Poor Bond has been catching it.

The New England News Co.'s representative here tells me that The Clipten is booming right along, and he says that it is nothing else than the excellence of its baseball department that causes it. "You have beguth finely." he said to me. "The standard is high. You have reputable correspondints, and what they say goes. ST. LOUIS NEWS.

Without Its Brown Pets, the Big City

Grows Apathetic - General Gossip.
[Special Correspondence of The New York Clipper.]
St. Louis, June 9.—President Von der Ahe's re turn from the East Wednesday last, in advance of turn from the sast weenesday list, in advance of the champions, has been locally recorded, and has served simply as a source of irritation to the emactated condition of local enthusiasm, ready to swell up and burst upon the return home of Com-iskey's "dangerous focs." The Browns have been gone since May 17, and their return home next Tucsday is looked forward to with a vast deal of satisfaction. Without the Browns the town is satisfaction. Without the frowns low town is practically dead in Summer, and, as it is, it does not take very much to put the people to sleep. The climatic influences are conducive to inantition in the heated term, and it takes an attraction of meteoric brilliancy is rouse them from an inclina-tion to a state bordering upon the lugubriously aparthetic.

not take very much to put the people to sleep. The climatic influences are conducte to inantion in the heated term, and it takes an attraction of meteoric brilliancy is rouse them from an inclination to a state bordering upon the lugubriously apathetic.

The Cincinnatis fill the bill very nicely in St. Louis. They give the public what is greatly admired here—to wit, make the Browns play ball for all they are worth to down them, and generally carry off the game as a result of the conflict. Cincinnati is St. Louis' Jonah, but they help greatly to make a contest, and, as a result, they are the best attraction in the American Association in St. Louis. We live in happy anticipation that Brooklyn and the Athletics, with "Brudder Bill" and Curt. Welch, will keep the Browns husting and the games hard fought contests, when they show up early next month. For the past three years it has not been a question as to who would win when either of the Eastern clubs would meet the Browns would down them. We hope to see a changed state of affairs next month, but Brooklyn, Athletic and Baltimore had better take warning that they will be compelled to put on their strongest armor to capture many games in St. Louis. The Browns are beginning to get down to their playing basis of the past season, and when they strike it there is nothing the other ide of Chicago that can stop the accumulation of triumphs. This is merely a friendly tip, given life upon the exigencies of the times. It may be given the laugh by pennant aspirants from the East, but, if not heeded, it will cause waiting and word-gnawing. The Browns are within halling distance of home, having arrived in Chicinnati to day. They play in Porkapolis today, tomorrow and Monday. During their Eastern trip, now about to end, the Browns have more than held their own up to today. They started off in third place, and now hold second. They won three straight in Baltimore, won and lost one clieveland, broke even on four games in Browns are earlied by good luck and countingers are lething t scream.

But the home of the Browns is in sadness and gloom,
And the city is wrapped in the air of the tomb.

slain, And their poor weeping town will ne'er rise again.

It may not be so funny for Cincinnati in October next. There may be a funeral there with a lot of stiffs disclosed from view. And the Browns will mourn their loss.

By special arrangement one of the postponed Kansas City games with the Browns—and there are three—will take place Tuesday, June 12, at Sportsman's Park. The Kansas Citys are en route from Louisville home, and they have that day open. The Louisvilles follow Kansas City, opening a series of Louisvilles follow Kansas City, opening a series of three games June 13. Cincinnati then comes June 16 for three games. It will be the first time Cincinnati will have played a Sunday game here this season. What a crowd they ought to draw!

President Von der Ahe left tonight to join the Browns at Cincinnati. His son Edward accompanied him. Yesterday he wired Manager Loftus to have Capt. Joe Herr of the St. Louis Whites to go at once to Cincinnati to take McGarr's place on the Browns, McGarr being laid up from a spiked leg. The Whites are at Minneapolis, and Herr left there for Cincinnati, where he will arrive tomorrow morning.

The St. Louis Whites have not yet been sold, though negotiations have been pending with Lincoln and Denver parties for some time. J. C. McBride, of Lincoln, offered $,000 for the Whites in time payments, but President Von der Ahe wanted $10,000 with blaley or $7,000 without the bright young pitcher. The Lincoln negotiations are now off. Denver offered $5,000 for a half interest in the team, but President Von der Ahe prefers to dispose of the Whites outright, having no further interest in them. If he cannot dispose of them in a body, he will probably accept some of the offers made for Staley, Dolan, Herr, Beckley and Cantz. He holds Staley at $3,000, and he is certainly worth it to a good club needing a first class pitcher. Louisville, Cleveland and Kansas City want Staley, but they do not seemed disposed to pay the price demanded. Staley will join the Rrowns before he is allowed to go at a smaller figure.

The Lincoln Club of the Western League disband.

The Lincoln Club of the Western League disbanded here last Wednesday, when Manager J. A. Keith made himself conspicuous by his a ta Canadian absence. Several of the players complain bitterly of his action in silently stealing away, and leaving them penniless in St. Lonis. Players Wright, Frich, Moore and Mussey claim that Keith skipped out and left them in the lurch and they are thrown on the cold, cold world without bread. They tell me Keith is a "daigy" in his cultured ability as an actor in the drama of "Skipped Out." McCarthy's base running is one of the marvels of the diamond. He is slashing into records and breaking them with impunity and a pair of well seasoned figers. Little Mac is proving a jewel to the Browns, and he is doing better general work than was ever done by any right fielder the Browns ever had.

The Cincinnatis became desperate while in Philadelphia last week and resorted to all kinds of tricks to win at least one game of the four with the Athletica. Their conduct became so unbearable in the game of June? that Umpire Doescher was compelled to impose a number of fines on the players. Reilly is reported as saying to Manager Sharsig: "How much did it cost you to buy that Dutchman?" "If I had heard that remark," said Doescher, "it would have cost Reilly $200." It is claimed that the Cincinnaties were not justified in blaming Doescher, as their own wretched playing did more than anything else to defeat them. Doescher had many close decisions to make during the series, but the Cincinnatis received the benefit of as many as the Athletics did.

Boston vs. Detroit.

The Detroits defeated the Bostons for the second time June 8, in Boston, after an exceedingly extime June 8, in Boston, after an exceedingly exciting and prolonged struggle of no fewer than fifteen innings. Richardson and Johnston batted the ball over the left field fence for home runs in the first inning, and Morrill hit in the same direction in the seventh. The Detroits bunched four safe hits for two runs and tied the score in the ninth inning, being materially aided by a close decision at the home plate. Clarkson weakened in the fifteenth inning, when the Detroits scored six runs off singles by Hanlon, Richardson and Rowe, a double by White, a home run by Bennett and a muff by Prown. The Bostons made only three hits in the least size in line.

WHITE (Herr Gunsberg).

BLACK (Mr. Mortimer).

Move made—20...Q R to K sq. Following one of Mr. Blackburne's maxims: "Never commence your final attack unless your Q R is in play." Here, however, is an exception to the rule: for Black could have forced the game with 30...Q to R 4, threatening 21...Q to Kt3, +, or Q × B P. To the text move the right continuation was 21. K R × B; 22. K P × R Q to R 4; 23...Q to her 3, Q B × P, with almost certain chances of a successful attack. Moves 21... and 22. present an unfortunate transposition in their order, which makes all the difference.

but hardly advisable with Q Kt at B 3. White's opening is rather eccentric.

(g) We should have preferred 13. P to K B 4. If White does not X en p., both his Q and B are out of play; and if P X P en p., B X P with a better game. Three moves later, 16. P to B 4 was more forcible.

(f) To be condemned on principle, and, in this instance, creating a weakness of which Dr. P. so ingentously took advantage. For the third time P to K B 4.

(t) [We follow The Field as to the point for illustration]:

WHITE (Dr. Pollock).

Move made—31. Pto K B 5! The beginning of a combination the conception of which is worthy of any of the great masters, the only defect being the omission of a preparatory move which leaves a flaw in one link of the chain of the variation, the whole proving no stronger than its weakest point. He should have played 22. Q B to Q4 preventing the ultimate defence of P to Q 5, shutting out White B at the supreme moment.

(a) Perceiving Black's defence, White alters his factice and brings about a not less ingenious termination with the text move. Black's obvious reply, which nine out of ten players would have chosen, turns out not to be correct. The most unlikely move on the boad, viz., 25. K to K sq. proved, in analysis after the game, to be the winning move. This was discovered by Zukertort.

(i) A masterplece! and so is the whole estimated by the omission pointed out at (21.), it is almost gratity ling, from an artistic point of view, that Black did not find the right defence.

BACK TO THE FOLD.—As intimated above, we think the wanderers are generally making a move te get back to the cost, home like cabin of THE CLIPPER. What between old and new we are getting a right smart crowd round us, sure. The latest return is a no less prised old time contributor than Jno. A Cabbresh, now Assit, P. M., Vicksburg. All the old time friends will cordially welcome him, and the new ones will soon learn to. Let us introduce him—or, better, here's how he introduces himself: "My Dran Minon: It has been 'Lang Syne' since I wrote you [Yest] in the same boat with Bro. Lukenbach, but you must not by any means think that during all these years I have forgotten you—quite otherwise, I assure you. [Thanks!] I have simply had nothing in particular to communicate; and, although I have many times been upon the point of writing [Do you know what is said to be 'paved with good intentions?'] I refrained for that reason. I do not think I have missed two consecutive weeks seeing This CLIPPER however, and so I may say I have been in weekly communion, if not communication, with the Nestor of American chees. Let me sincerely congratulate you upon THE CLIPPER's chees column. There is nothing to excell in the wide world, is there is nothing to excell the world, in the location of the same to be a desolutory character, and few games have been worth preserving. I can still interest any of them down this way, however. You will have forgotten a good deal when you can't. I send you a trifle, which I hope you will find worth a diagram [it will be our next week's problem, illustrating the peculiar power of the Bishop. The position is quite simple, of course; but I imagine tiwill puzzle and amuse some of the beginners. If I can get anything else I will send it to you. Ever yours faithfully.

More Psychologie, — Having already mapped out

MORE PRYCHOLOGIE.—Having already mapped out more matter for next week than we shall dare to offer for one number, we here give, while we can, Bro. Devide's introduction to a highly amusing emanation from his ingenious and fertile brain. He writes: "I take pleasure in sending first CLIPPER one of my blindfold efforts, which I hope will amuse you. Had it not been for an error occurring in its earlier part, it would be a good game—making dus allowance for the weak play of the 'seeing man,' who is always supposed to be more or less blind. But this game has an advantage over all blindfold games ever played by Paulsen, Blackburne, Zukertort, or even Morphy. "Well, there's cheek!" you will say, Listen. There was a little party in a private house in Harlem; and, in the crowd, yours truly. Among the gentlemen was one who was very anxious to play as game of cleas with the editor of The Columbia CARL (Armorkic. I proposed to play without sight of the same time. Now, did Morphy, or Steinitz, or any one else, ever do the like?" [The game next week.]

A MONSTER REPTILE.

He Takes Possession of an Extinct Cra-

He Takes Possession of an Extinct Crater in New Mexico.

San Marcial and the country in the vicinity has been considerably aroused from time to time by the conflicting reports of Mexicans, who say that the extinct crater to the east of the plain, known as "Jornado del Muerto," about twenty-five miles from there, is the abode of a monster serpent, second in size only to that huge reptile of the seas that has so often been spoken of by mariners and others. It is reported by some to be fully one hundred feet in length and about two feet in circumference, but probably the most trustworthy information is that given by a Mr. Alexander, who possesses some mining property in the San Andreas Mountains, which lie to the east of the broad pialin. Mr. Alexander says that he saw the serpent once while crossing the Jornado on the way to his mines. He was about half way across the plain, jogging leisurely along behind his burro, dreaming of the immense wealth that he hoped to realize from his property, when suddenly the burro stopped, erected its long ears, wheeled quickly around and made a mad stampede in the opposite direction. Mr. Alexander was at a loss to account for this strange freak of the burro, and was about to start in pursuit of the runaway when he chanced to look ahead. Then his eyes gazed upon the monster, lie was so beside himself with fear at first, he says, that his nerves were completely paralyzed, his hair stood on end, and move he could not; he was rooted to the spot, and his eyes were fixed upon the serpent. It was about a quarter of mile from him, and was traveling in the opposite direction—toward the crater. He says it appeared to be about sixty feet in length, but what surprised him most was the queer proportions of the creature. The fore parts were of enormous size, its head being fully as large as a barrel. A few feet behind the creature's head two large scales were visible, which glittered in the sun like polished shields; further back were two huge claws on either side, about two feet apart, which

Racing Bulls in France.

In France there is a breed of cattle called the Landaise. These animals are peculiar to the de-partment of Landes, where the grass is hard and Landaise. These animals are peculiar to the department of Landes, where the grass is hard and seanty and where the agriculture is rude indeed. On many of the farms these cattle are fed by hand. There are openings with wickets in the wall of the house, which faces on the court where the cattle are kept. Members of the farmer's household take their places by these openings and feed the cattle from within. They hand out mouthful after mouthful, but so slowly that the animal puts its muzzle to the opening and has every straw carefully tucked in between its jaws. Hour after hour is consumed in this kind of feeding. Sometimes the cow tires before it is considered she has enough. In that case a piece of turnip or choice wisp of hay is offered. The poor brute raises her head to the opening only to be fooled and have tucked down her throat another bunch of coarse straw. It is said to be astonishing how little is required to keep the Landaise thrifty by these methodical methods of feeding. The Landaise cows, as well as the oxen, are worked hard in the fields and on the roads. Some of these animals are highly-prized for their speed, and the most exciting features of the programmes of the fairs in Landes are the bull races. The Consul who sent home a picture of a Landaise racer said their agility was extraordinary. These animals take a trot without being blown. They often make long trips, covering forty-five and fifty miles in a day. At the games in Landes they are turned loose in a ring, and the athlete wins the plaudits of the spectators by teasing and dodging one of these buils. The performer's greatest feat is to advance with a cigarette in his mouth. The built charges with lowered horns. The athlete nicely calculates the distance, and, just as the buil reaches him he places a foot between the horns and vaults over the buil's back, being aided in the jump by the upward toos of the animal's head,—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE FRANK QUEEN PUBLISHING CO. (Limited) PUBLISHERS.

SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1898.

The actual weekly sales of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER are now and always have been far in excess of the combined actual sales of all the other ten cent dramatic and sporting papers in America.

Moreover, THE NEW YORK CLIPPER is the oldest theatrical and sporting journal published in this country.

AN UNPROFITABLE EXPERIMENT.

The meeting of the American Jockey Club which closed on the day THE CLIPPER went to press, was by no means so successful, viewed from whatever standpoint, as those which have preceded it at Jerome Park. With the exception of two or three days the attendance was far below the standard at this course which for many years has enjoyed great popularity with the lovers of the running turf, while in most instances, including all the important fixed events, the fields contrasted unfavorably in numbers with those of former years. That this was in large measure to be attributed to the change in the system of betting inaugurated at the meeting there can be no reasonable doubt. Perhaps, had the facilities provided by the organization been sufficient to accommodate the speculative public, there would have been less cause for fault finding by those who were subjected to much annoy ance, but even though the arrangements had been perfect for the handling of as great a throng as ever visited the grounds, there would still have been discontent among tha numerous class of bettors who regard with aversion the French mutual method of investing, preferring to place their money with the bookmakers, despite all that may justly be said against the pencillers as a class by those who advocate the former system. The experiment has not proven a profitable one for the club, as compared with the sum annually received for the book-making privilege, and, taking this fact into consideration, with the further one that a large proportion of the patrons of our race tracks, including owners of our most prominent horses, desire an opportunity to bet their money in the books, it will surprise us if the Fall meeting of the American Jockey Club does not witness a return to old methods, or, at least, to such arrangements as will afford all parties an opportunity to wager their money after the fashion that best suits their inclinations, which should prove satisfactory.

SKILLFUL FLY FISHERMEN.

Those enthusiastic disciples of the much respected father of the "gentle art." Izaak Walton, who assembled on the pebbly banks of the secluded Harlem Mere recently to participate in the annual trials of casting skill under the auspices of the National Rod and Reel Assocition, found the elements of wind and water arrayed against them. So unpromising was the outlook, indeed, that ordinary mortals might well have been dissuaded from their purpose by reason of the disagreeable surroundings, and suggested a postponement as advisable; but handlers of the implements of warfare against the scaly customers who infest our streams, whether as a means of gaining a livelihood or for the sake of the moments of pleasure that the practice of the art brings them, are proverbially rather partial to rain. Consequently the members of the N. R. R. A. did not leave the shores of the quiet little pond in Central Park till the objeet that had taken them there was carried out. The participants included the pick of the stream whipping brotherhood, and although the circumstances were far from so favorable as upon the occasion of the tournament held at the same spot last year, some brilliant achievements with rod and line were accomplished, including the breaking of several These yearly prize competitions, besides fulfilling the object for which they were instituted, the cultivation of the art of scieninto closer companionship those who love to "go a fishing" for the personal gratification it affords them and the pleasant associations inseparable from the pastime, and we are glad to know that the association is in a most prosperous condition, and that there is no reason to doubt that it will continue to be a flourishing organization for a long time to come.

--THE PROPOSED double seull race for the championship between John Teemer and Al. Hamm on one side and Jake Gaudaur and John McKay on the other seems to hang fire, for some reason. The champion has reiterated his intention to make the match, and his backer, Jim Keenan of Boston, declares his willingness to provide the sinews of war when he hears favorably from Teemer, who is now practising on the Delaware Biver for a regatta on the 16th inst. Meanwhile the money posted in Boston by J. A. St. John on behalf of Gandaur and mate remains uncovered, and the depost. for threatens that if the opposite side do not show the color of their money within a week he will proclaim his men champions of the This may at least have the effect of eausing the other side to come down to business without further unnecessary delay, which looks strange after their apparent anxiety, not long ago, for just such a match.

A Tribute from New Mexico.

From the Albuquerque, N. M., Democrat.

THE NOW YORK CLIPPER is one of the best papers that comes to Albuquerque. It has many admirers in this vicinity, who watch its coming with eager-ness, as it is a well known fact that its reports are official, and its decisions just and fair.

THE REVOLVER CHAMPIONSHIP

It is most unfortunate that the match tween those revolver experts. Chevalier Ira A. Paine and F. E. Bennett, which was so long in making, should have terminated in an un satisfactory and indecisive manner, leaving as it does the question of relative superiority just where it was before the firing opened. Mr. Bennett violated any of the conditions of the match, his opponent was justified in entering a formal protest, but, having done so, was informed that THE CLIPPERS were sold as soon as received, and that the regular subscribers to THE CLIPPER exceeded the sales of all the other dramatic papers put together, and, were they returnable, as the others are, the newsdealers would order and could sell many more.

SPORTING.

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary to book for another season, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

Omnis Gallia in tree partes divisa est, which being interpreted means if you book Benedict's "Monte Cristo" you will make three times as much money as you expect.

In the three years I have played the above play I have had big houses in every town I have played, unless the local manager had allowed some Jim Crow company to butcher the play ahead of me.

My return dates have been 50 per cent. to 200 per cent. better than the previous year.

I made good money the first season, I more than doubled it the second, and this last season my clean profit is nearly double both the other years.

This coming season, as I can well anorth it, I shall carry a much larger back stonger company than ever before.

I shall carry some of the most elaborate scenery that was ever taken on the road, designed and executed by Sosman & Landis. AMONG HUNDREDS OF COMMENDATORY PRESS OPINIONS READ THE FOLLOWING:

of the great melodrams. "Monte Cristo." is as perfect a representation of the piece as has yet been seen in this city, or, in other words, it serves to evidence the actor's confidence in the superiority of his representation. The theatre was packed both afternoon and evening. Mr. Benedict appeared as Edmund Dantes, and gave a stirring and satisfactory representation of the character. He carried the audience with him, and held its undivided attention from first to last. The support was good, each individual member evidently having the cidedly the most elaborate set upon the Windsor stage of the surface of the surfa
